Dear Friends,

Hi, Life is interesting. We were in our first week of Swahili study, when Judy began to sense something wrong with her right eye. We went to Nairobi on Saturday morning, to have the specialist check it. He said the retina had redetached and that we had to immediately go to London, UK. (this is the same eye that detached 4 years ago)

We only had a few clothes for an overnight trip to Nairobi, and Judy only has sandals(it is freezing in London). We didn't have time to worry, just get a ticket and go!!

We arrived in London Sunday evening, and she had surgery on Monday. The Dr. said that it was worse than last time. He also said that a redetachment after 4 years is very, very, very rare. She is 1 in 100. He didn't know how much of her sight he could regain (and he still doesn't). The surgery went well. He is hoping to regain 80%. I asked if this has anything to do with living in Africa, and he said no!! This would have happened anywhere.

London is so expensive. The room where we are now is $230 a night. I am looking for a place to move to as we will be here for a month, but she is not able to move yet. So, I just today was able to leave her, and go and find an internet cafe.

We are in need of assistance. I don't usually ask like that, but what can I say. We are working on paying for Kendra's June wedding, and Jack's adoption later this year. We have medical insurance for the surgery, which looks to be about $12,000. We need assistance for the lodging during the aftercare. She is not allowed to fly for a month. An eye is a wonderful thing to keep.

I will send an update as I can. Judy is doing well. She is peaceful, and trusting God in this situation. HE is still on the throne, inspite of our circumstances.

WE would appreciate your prayers for a good recovery.

Blessings, Gary and Judy Woods
