

Mason City Christian Church breaks ground for new facility

First Christian Church of Mason City, Illinois broke ground for a new church facility on April 20. The current building is aging, landlocked and lacks adequate parking space. The church has been planning the transition for some time, but delayed the project during a pastoral transition. Joe Briseno is the current pastor, and has led the church to finish plans and raise funds to get the project in gear.